

International Leadership Programme in Health Professional Education

8-12 June 2009

Royal Castle, Stockholm

This is an exciting and innovative programme in Health Professional Educational Leadership developed between ASME and Karolinska Institutet. The programme is aimed at individuals with leadership positions in medical and health care education in Europe. The programme is designed to address emerging leadership issues in health care education in Europe, to promote greater harmonisation and understanding of different working practices and to form a community of leadership practice in Europe.

It will be ideal for individuals working in either pre or post registration programmes and for those in Universities or health care systems. Applications are invited from individuals working as deans, chairs of department, senior academics, directors of studies, residency directors etc. The programme will be lead by faculty members from ASME, Karolinska Institutet and other participating institutions.

Programme Content

Five day residential programme comprising four modules:

- Exploration of different system and national perspectives on health care education
- Individual and organisational leadership
- Change management and organisational culture
- Scholarship and leadership in educational organisations

The programme will be run in an interactive format, with a variety of teaching and learning methods used. Important emphasis will be put on the experience of the participants.
